

John Tomko, President

A graduate of Yale University and Harvard Business School, John Tomko found early success in the film business when he discovered and produced the movie “Falling Down” for Warner Bros. He ultimately developed and supervised three movies at Warner Bros. including “Ocean’s 11.” In 2008, John joined Rain Management Group where he represents writers and directors in feature films and television. He put together for clients the upcoming films “Sextuplet” (Netflix) and “Midway” (Lionsgate) and is the producer of “The Perfect Date” (Netflix). He also represents clients in unscripted television who are both content creators and on-screen personalities. Clients also include novelists and non-fiction book writers. John advises both corporations and personalities regarding brand management with an emphasis on social media marketing and cross-platform marketing.